Finding the perfect gift...

Being away from hubby for 3 weeks makes me miss him more and more each day. My thoughts lately have been on the upcoming Father's Day and what we could do to surprise him and make it known that we did miss him, we do appreciate him and that we do love him. Holidays (unless it's Christmas) aren't really a big deal for us, I think prior Father's Days we really haven't done anything spectacular or even got a gift for daddy, this year we intend to change that.

Finding something that not only gives a personal touch as well as giving the recipient a choice of gifts is a pretty hard thing to do. Just a gift card won't suffice; it's not personal enough so why not layer your gifts? Vivabox is a new product that can do that for you. You pick the theme of the gift you want to give from their wide selection, this gives you the personal touch, it shows that you were thinking about your recipients likes and needs, this allows them to almost 'sample' the gifts and see if it's something they like or not, after that, they can actually choose the gift they'd really like by using the enclosed gift card that they can redeem online to choose their final gift. Perfect for Father's Day I think because it's always hard to find that perfect gift for dad.

In order to actually see if this was the 'perfect gift' I had to see for myself. Vivabox sent me the Coffee Talk box which included:

- Three sustainable coffees from Jazzman's Cafe
- Hazelnut Flavoring Syrup from Torani
- Gift card for a Coffee Talk Gift Menu item
- Jazz Music CD

As a coffee lover, I was pretty happy with the box, three coffees to sample and my favorite, hazelnut Torani syrup! I actually haven't gotten a chance to redeem my gift card for a coffee talk gift menu item yet, but the choices are great. If the dad in your life is a coffee lover, this is one great box, the products included to redeem the gift card with include a variety of options that any coffee lover would love to have. The Coffee Talk box isn't the only gift box that Vivabox offers; there are so many different boxes for anyone, including the dad on your list (I'd say the Bar-B-Que will be pretty popular). If you're looking for the perfect gift for Father's Day or any birthday or holiday be sure to check out www.vivaboxusa.com.
